In His Inaugural Address He Declared for the Enforcement of All Laws—Brief But Felicitous Ceremony Marked Official Change.

Topeka, Kan., Jan. 13.—The inaugural ceremony of Gov.-elect W. J. Bailey, a wealthy young farmer of Nemaha county, and other new state officers took place at the auditorium Monday, beginning promptly at 12 o'clock. Gov. W. E. Stanley, as retiring executive, made a brief speech, followed by the inaugural address of the new governor, W. A. Johnston, who Monday became chief justice by reason of seniority, administered the oath of office. An immense crowd witnessed the ceremony. In the evening a public reception will be given at the state house for the incoming and outgoing officials.

The only ex-governor present at the inauguration was George W. Glick, of Atchison, now 74 years old, who was inaugurated 20 years ago, and was the first and only democrat to hold that office in the state. Near him sat ex-Chief Justice Samuel Kingman, who in 1875 resigned the office because he thought he had become too old for service. Since then two of his successors have died, a third retired from office to-day and a fourth, whose term of service as an associate justice reaches back almost to Judge Kingman's times, takes up the work. Prayer was offered by Bishop Frank R. Millsbaugh, of the Episcopal church.

Gov.-elect Bailey was introduced by Gov. Stanley, and received an ovation as he arose to deliver his inaugural address, which was in large measure a eulogy of the state's accomplishments in its 42 years of life. In closing, he said: "I am about to take the oath and receive the commission of the high office to which the people have elected me. I promise you in this splendid presence that to-day I dedicate the best energies and purposes of my life to its duties. Recognizing the supremacy of law, I believe in the enforcement of every law on the statute books. To promise that no mistakes will be made is beyond the range of possibility, but speaking for my colleagues of the new administration and myself, we pledge you they will be mistakes, not crimes."

Gov. Bailey's colleagues in office who took the oath to-day were as follows: Daniel J. Hanna, of Hill City, lieutenant governor; J. R. Burrow, secretary of state; Thomas T. Kelly, state treasurer; Seth G. Wells, state auditor; C. C. Coleman, attorney general; I. L. Dayhoff, state school superintendent; C. H. Lulling, state insurance superintendent; supreme court justices—Henry F. Mason, J. C. Pollock, E. W. Cunningham, A. L. Greene and R. A. Burch.

Washington, Jan. 12.—Talk of a compromise measure on the statehood question that will be acceptable to the senate has been renewed with apparently more directness and prospect of result than has marked the consideration of the proposition up to this time. It is authoritatively stated that Senator Quay, leader of the statehood advocates, and Senator Aldrich, leader of the opposition, have been in consultation with a view of reaching a compromise which will bring the bill to an early vote in the senate. The proposed basis of agreement is a compromise bill which will provide for the admission of Arizona and New Mexico as one state, with Oklahoma to be admitted in accordance with the provisions of the original omnibus bill. DOINGS IN CONGRESS.

Bills, Resolutions and Messages Before the Senate and House and How They Are Disposed of.

Tuesday, January 6, the senate listened to two spirited speeches, Senator Hoar (Mass.) on his bill regulating trusts and an attack by Senator Vest (Mo.) on protected industries through the operation of the Dingley law. Senator Hoar said that nearly all thoughtful men in the country were agreed that some legislation ought to be had for the regulation and control of trusts. Senator Vest, in a most able speech, told of the coal shortage crisis and scored republican members for their silence in the matter. The bill for the creation of a general staff for the army passed the house, as also a bill to increase the pensions of soldiers totally deaf from $20 to $40 per month.

The senate on the 7th discussed the bill for the reorganization of the militia and also the statehood bill. Senator Malloy (Fla.) led the objection to the militia bill, contending that it would increase the standing army by 100,000 men. Objection was made to the resolutions adopted in Oklahoma favoring single statehood with the Indian territory. The house passed the senate bill for the redemption of the silver coinage of the Hawaiian islands and its recalculation into United States coin.

In the senate on the 8th the Vest resolution occupied a greater part of the time. Senator Vest (Mo.) declared that the 40-cent duty on coal was the result of a "hold-up" by a few democratic senators and presented documentary evidence as proof. The matter went over until next legislative day. Senator Cockrell (Mo.) and Senator Morgan (Ala.) engaged in a heated debate over a bill for the retirement of Capt. R. E. Hobson. The omnibus bill was then taken up and later the senate adjourned until Monday. The house passed the Philippines constabulary bill. After discussing a number of minor bills the house at 4:35 adjourned.

The house on the 9th passed 144 bills, none of especial importance. It was private pension day. Mr. Russell (Tex.) criticized the house for undue haste in the consideration of private pension legislation and precipitated quite a debate. The speaker appointed Mr. DeArmond (Mo.) on the conference committee on the anarchist bill to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Lanham (Tex.). House adjourned until Monday.

A lively debate occurred in the senate on the 12th between Senators Aldrich (R. I.) and Vest (Mo.) and Carmack (Tenn.), when the first named endeavoring to secure a postponement of the Vest resolution requiring the committee on finance to report a bill removing the duty on coal. Senator Aldrich announced that there were strong hopes of action being taken elsewhere with the view to removing the duty on coal. The proposition was not acceptable to Senator Vest, who expressed the opinion that to allow the resolution "to go into the uncertain and nebulous future" would mean its defeat. Senator Nelson (Miss.) continued his remarks in opposition to the omnibus statehood bill and a large number of private pension bills were passed by unanimous consent. Senator Mitchell (Ore.) announced the death of Congressman Tongue (Ore.) and offered the usual resolutions expressing sorrow and the senate at 5:15 adjourned. The house, after adopting a resolution to authorize the merchant marine and fisheries committee to investigate the coal situation, at once adjourned out of respect to the memory of the late Congressman Tongue (Ore.), after the appointment of a committee to attend the funeral.

He quoted from the census reports to show that in 1900 the percentage of illiterates among males over 21 years of age, native whites, was in Virginia 12.5; in North Carolina, 19; in South Carolina, 12.6; in Georgia, 12.1; in Alabama, 14.2; in Tennessee, 14.5, and in Kentucky, 15.5.
